FOR A CLEAN, GREEN MUMBAI

City to get underground bins in heavy footfall areas

SHEFALI PARAB - PANDIT
Mumbai

After a successful trial of underground garbage bins at some places in the city, the BrihanMumbai Municipal Corporation has now decided to install 30 to 40 more bins in areas with heavy footfall. The civic officials will map underground utilities at the identified locations, the tendering process for which will start next month.

To get rid of the stink from garbage and to make the city look cleaner, the BMC installed underground bins at four places on a pilot basis in 2018 in areas that saw heavy tourist footfall like Cheeta Gate - Fort, Girgaon beach, Aksa beach and Goral beach. However, while installing the bins in dug-up chambers, the BMC realised that they have to deal with underground utilities and ducts.

The BMC has now decided to install underground bins in civic-run major and peripheral hospitals, nursing homes and also at marketplaces.

"After identifying the sites we will coordinate with the ward and ask for a map of underground utilities in the area. Once the location is finalised a tender process for installing the bins will start within one month," said the civic official from BMC's Solid Waste Management Department.

Underground Bin system

How the underground bin is operated

The underground bins are installed in dug-up chambers with the open end facing the ground. A sensor fitted in the bin alerts workers after it becomes full. The bin is then lifted and the garbage is cleared. Each bin comprises two 2.2 cubic metre cabins for dry and wet waste. It can hold up to 500 kg of garbage and each dustbin costs around Rs 15 lakhs.

Explosive-like object scare in Raigad turns out to be false alarm

AMIT SRIVASTAVA / Mumbai

After around eight hours of operation, the Raigad police discovered that the explosive-like device that was found under a bridge on the Mumbai-Goa highway in Maharashtra's Raigad district was a dummy which was later defused with the help of the Bomb Detection and Disposal Squad (BDDS).

According to police, a local found two bunches of six gelatin sticks each, attached to an electric circuit and a watch in the river bed which is hardly a foot deep below the Bhogwati River Bridge on the Mumbai Goa highway on Thursday evening around 6 pm, and alerted the police.

Acting immediately the Raigad police, cordoned off and traffic movement at one side of the bridge was stopped to facilitate the BDDS to defuse the explosive-like object.

Devendra Pol, a senior police inspector from Pen police station said that the apparatus was not connected to any detonator and no explosive was found in it. "We found thermocool inside the object," said Pol. However, he admitted that it was not an act of mischief. "A thorough investigation will be carried out to know how it came to the riverbed," said Pol, adding that at present Pen police are investigating the case.

The ATS is also investigating simultaneously.

Superintendent of Police Somnath Garge and Additional Superintendent of Police Atul Zende also reached the spot. A joint operation by the BDDS from Raigad and Navi Mumbai safely fished the object out of the river. "An X-ray scan confirmed that it was a dummy bomb. No untoward incident has taken place at this place," said Senior PI Pol. He added that an FIR will be registered following an investigation.

Meanwhile, Raigad police appreciated the young man of Raigad district who immediately reported the incident to the police and cooperated with the police.

Raigad gun scare in August 2022

The explosive-like object found under the bridge reminded the incident of a yacht carrying a box with three AK-47 rifles, ammunition and some documents which was found at Harihareshwar beach on August 18 morning. Intensified probe through the day revealed that the yacht, named Lady Han, was presumed to be sunk near Oman, on its way from Muscat to Europe on June 26, after it encountered bad weather at sea. The owner couple, Australians Hannah Londergan and James Hobert, was rescued by a Korean navy ship, which had responded to the SOS. Because of the bad weather, the yacht could not be towed, it went adrift and reached the Harihareshwar coast.
